“Improving a Golf Operation in St. Louis”

Glenwood Springs, CO (August 1, 2010) – Golf Club Consulting, Inc. will assist Rend Lake Conservancy District improve the turf and golf maintenance operations at Rend Lake Golf Course.

The Rend Lake Golf Course is located about 100 miles SE of St. Louis, in the town of Whittington, Illinois. The golf course is operated by Rend Lake Conservancy District and the primary role of RLCD is to supply water to many counties of southern Illinois. The RLCD also owns and operates Rend Lake Recreation Complex, which contains Rend Lake Golf Course”, said Dick Eide of Golf Club Consulting, Inc.

“The golf course has used the USGA Green Section in the past, but we retained Golf Club Consulting, Inc. this time because of their ability to address more than the turf issues of the golf course. Besides reviewing of present turf conditions, we also have asked Golf Club Consulting, Inc. to give input to long-term priorities of the golf course maintenance department.” said Larry Sanders of Rend Lake Conservancy District.

“Rend Lake Golf Course was designed by Lawrence Packard in the 1970’s. Originally it was an 18-hole golf course, but in the mid-90’s a third nine was added. The club has had numerous turf issues with this summer’s heat and humidity. The main problem has been on the greens, but we will review all aspects of the golf course turf.” Eide added.

A golf course visit is scheduled for August 2-4, 2010.
